MRS. NATION HITS MR. TAFT'S TRAIL

Arrives in City with Her Interesting Plans.

HAMMER REPLACES HATCHET

Asserts She Oves the Republican Presidential Candidate Something, and that He Will Be Paid in Full with Interest—Going to Cincinnati to Begin the Battle.

Carrie Nation rode into Washington last night with both feet in the stirrups. She carried a hammer. It was her weapon to "knock" in a most artistic fashion. She struck at William H. Taft and buried the head of her weapon deep into the candidate's campaign for the Presidency.

Mrs. Nation talked to a reporter of The Washington Herald, and her words fairly hissed defiance at Mr. Taft, the evils of Washington and things in general. She said she would be in the city three or four days, in which time she will attend to some private business connected with the sale of "The Hatchet," which was recently consummated. The business concluded, she will go into Ohio, and Cincinnati in particular, and "advertise Mr. Taft."

Owes Him Something. "I owe him something," is the way she put it in a most significant tone, "and he is going to be paid in full and with good interest."

"He had the audacity to go out into Kansas and make the remark that it was the State that was trying to regulate morals by law. That was an insult to the people of Kansas. Now, I am going over to Ohio and show him a thing or two."

"I am going to be in Cincinnati in about ten days, and when I get there, I will have something to say that will make the people sit up and take notice. I am going to tell them about Mr. Taft's religion. He has been doing a lot of talking recently about his religion, and what he thinks of religion. It will be my duty to say to the people of Cincinnati that Mr. Taft belongs to the biggest organized band of infidels in the world. I guess that is going some—eh?"

"What do you think of Mr. Roosevelt?" was asked. "President Roosevelt is the biggest fraud this country has had in any office in its history. And I want to say that Mr. Taft is a great big piece of putty. He is absolutely in the hands of Roosevelt, to be shaped or molded as the President sees fit."

"And your opinion of the city of Washington?" "Oh, that is awful! It has been said there is no gambling here. I have been all over the United States, and I can say truthfully that I have never seen as many pool-rooms in any city before in all my travels. Vice runs with a free hand, and I believe the police of the Capital are its agents."

Wants Major to Explain. "I wish Maj. Sylvester would explain to the people of Washington how it happens that a certain district is permitted to exist right under the shadow of the new Municipal Building. Does he think for a single minute that he is fooling the people of this town? This is my home, and I am coming back here and go after the police of the National Capital in a way that will expose them to all the people of the United States."

Mrs. Nation is stopping at 217 D street northwest. She says that is her permanent address in Washington, from where she will deal out liberal doses of her ideas of reformation.

FUNERAL OF MRS. LEAVY. Services in Harvey's Chapel Yesterday Morning.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Leavy, who died in the arms of her husband Sunday afternoon as they were strolling in front of the Shoreham Hotel, was held at Harvey's Chapel yesterday morning. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. G. Butler, of the Lutheran Place Memorial Church. Interment was in Rock Creek Cemetery.

The pallbearers were M. T. Griffin, J. L. Wilmoth, George Minke, H. M. Presley, N. Keane, and William Palmer.

Mr. Leavy is a business man of long experience, residing at 1415 N street northwest. He has held several responsible positions with Washington and New York newspapers.

STRUCK BY STREET CAR. William H. Kenwright Sues Traction Company for Damages.

Alleging that he sustained permanent injuries by being thrown from a wagon hit by a car of the Washington Railway and Electric Company, William H. Kenwright yesterday sued that corporation for $15,000.

It is averred that he was crossing the company's tracks at Third and H street on December 7, 1906, when a car going at an excessive and unlawful rate of speed struck the vehicle he was driving.

ASK LIEN ON REAL ESTATE. Contractors Allege Building Materials Are Not Paid For.

DRILL ON WHITE HOUSES WARD Boys' Life and Drum Corps Give Snappy Exhibit.

Led by Twelve-year-old Maj. Spence, Brooklyn Boys' Corps Will Enter Baltimore Contest.

Fast and snappy drilling was seen on the White House ellipse yesterday afternoon, when the twenty-six lads comprising the Twelfth Street Rifle, Drum, and Bugle Corps, of Brooklyn, N. Y., gave an exhibition before a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Under the command of twelve-year-old Maj. Spence, the boys, without guns, went through a series of rapidly executed movements that brought forth applause. A large part of the drill was gone through at the sound of the bugle, and resembled the work of a famous troupe now in vogue.

Starting at the southeast corner of the big ellipse, the company gradually worked its way across the field, working out all sorts of intricate formations on its way.

The company is now stopping at La Petra Hotel. They leave to-morrow for Baltimore, where they will participate in a national contest of rifle and drum corps from all over the country. Upon the arrival of the boys in Baltimore, they will be joined by six more of their number.

Asbury Park Not "Wide Open." Mr. E. I. Booram, of the Treasury Department, who has been spending some time at Asbury Park, writes to The Washington Herald to deny the dispatch recently sent out from Asbury Park to the effect that that resort was now "wide open," and that a ton of liquor is shipped every day into that city.

He says that during his stay at Asbury Park he has not seen a single intoxicated person, nor can he find any one who has seen such a person. He forwards a copy of the Asbury Park Journal, which shows that while liquor is surreptitiously sold at the resort there is no evidence whatever of the traffic.

DECIDED LAST JUNE

Substation Site Not Debatable, Says Macfarland.

BOARD'S ACTION IS UPHOLD

President of District Commission Declares He Voted in Favor of the Seventh Street Site in June, Settling the Question—Maj. Morrow Thinks District Is Open to Mandamus Suit.

According to Commissioner Macfarland, the whole controversy concerning the change of the location of the new substation in the southwest section of the city, is without a working basis, as the question was finally decided last June.

Commissioner Macfarland, after a month's vacation, with Mrs. Macfarland, returned Sunday night. One of the first matters to come up before him was the case of the substation. In the absence of the president of the Board of Commissioners, the railroad company had appealed the action of the board in ordering the selection of a site for the station between Four-and-a-half and Seventh streets southwest, in place of the site at Fourteenth and Water streets, once approved.

Engineer Commissioner Morrow upheld the appeal of the railroad, but Commissioner West held to the former action of the board. It was thought that the matter was awaiting the vote of Commissioner Macfarland, but the latter declares his vote was cast last June. He said yesterday:

Macfarland Makes Statement. On the 18th of June last I recommended to the Commissioners that we revoke our approval of the Fourteenth street site for a substation, and reserve the railroad company to construct the substation on its own land in the neighborhood of Seventh street southwest, and the Commissioners, by a majority vote, approved that recommendation. The railroad company was notified, and I supposed it would submit to the Commissioners a new site at the point indicated. In this case, in other matters, the Commissioners, after careful consideration, decided the question by a majority vote, and under the majority of the Commissioners are convinced that the decision should be changed, it will stand.

I shall adhere to the action I took in June. There were two reasons for it. First, that the ground, after considering the whole of the long season, had not satisfied the approval by the Commissioners of the Fourteenth street site, and second, that the citizens and commuters who were to use the substation preferred to have it in the neighborhood of Seventh street, and I supposed that the railroad desired to construct the substation at Fourteenth street, but entirely on its own right of way, and would require no action by Congress.

But the other reason, namely, that the prospective patron of the substation near Seventh street, is a large business concern, and has been a larger expression of opinion. The distance between Seventh street and Fourteenth street is so considerable that I think the preference of the patron should determine the question.

Morrow's Stand Not Changed. Maj. Morrow, in spite of this statement by his confederate, still adheres to his opinion that the Fourteenth street site should be reapproved, as the railroad has been put to considerable expense in beginning the construction of some walls at that site. Furthermore, he believes that the Commissioners lay themselves open to mandamus proceedings in revoking their original approval without an action through the courts. He said:

I have no objection to a review of opinion, either of the citizens, commuters, or the Commissioners. The Commissioners have no more authority to revoke their decision than the railroad has to change its mind. The railroad's signature from the contract made with the District Board, after its completion, and demand of him that he build elsewhere at some spot they may choose.

I have no doubt that the corporation would sustain this view, but an earlier approval that Commissioner Macfarland has changed his written expressed opinion of June 18 that he believed the Fourteenth street site was the better one.

HUNTERS OF THE REEBIRDS. Opening of the Gunning Season Enjoyed by Many.

Washington's sporting population was out in force yesterday to get a shot at the delicate reebird, blackbird, and ortolan on the opening of the gunning season.

In all kinds of vehicles, and frequently with an outfit consisting of a pair of boots and an ancient shotgun, the hunters marched forth at early dawn. The reebirds are unusually plentiful at this time of the year, and if yesterday's results is a criterion the season is going to be one of the most successful of recent years.

GUilty OF MISCONDUCT. Negro and Young White Woman Arraigned in Police Court.

Aaron Winfield, a well-groomed negro, and Mary Winfield, a young white woman, pleaded guilty to a charge of improper conduct, and were arraigned before Acting Judge J. W. in the Police Court, yesterday morning. The woman has a seven months' old babe, bearing Winfield's name.

In default of $30 fine, Winfield was remanded to prison for five days. The girl was placed under personal bonds for her future appearance in court, at the suggestion of the Assistant United States Attorney.

The police say Winfield is a married man, and has a wife and family living in New Jersey.

DR. TEBBS FINED $100.

Aged Physician Notes Appeal from the Decision.

On three charges of mistreatment of Mrs. Haskell's young daughters, and one of insulting the mother, Dr. A. S. Tebbs was fined $100 by Justices of the Peace Tollen and Anderson, holding court at Forestville, Va., yesterday.

The aged physician noted an appeal. At the close of the testimony Crandall Mackey, prosecutor for the Commonwealth, delivered an appeal to the unwritten law, in the course of which he severely criticized the defendant.

James J. Haskell, son of the woman, who attempted to shoot Dr. Tebbs, was held in $3,000 bond for the action of the grand jury on two warrants.

BOARD MAKES PROMOTIONS

Shifts in District Officials Are Formally Ratified.

Changes Are Confined to the Tax and Building Departments of District.

By action of the Board of Commissioners yesterday, the expected promotions of several of the officials in the District government were approved, to take effect September 10.

E. G. Davis, tax collector of the District for the past twenty years, is transferred to the board of appraisers of real property of the District.

Charles C. Rogers, at present disbursing officer of the District, is promoted to be collector of taxes in place of Mr. Davis.

Louis C. Wilson, member of the board of appraisers of personal property, is promoted to succeed Mr. Rogers as disbursing officer.

Alexander McKendall, of the real estate tax board, is transferred to take the place made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Wilson.

Although these changes were rumored and openly discussed by the Commissioners some time ago, the formal vote and action was not taken until yesterday. Installation of new life and new methods into the work of the several officials is said to be the cause of the transfers.

On motion of Commissioner Morrow yesterday several changes were also made in the building department of the District. These changes are said to be the result of the recent investigation of the department by the Commissioners.

A. M. Poynton, principal assistant inspector of buildings, is transferred to be inspector of construction with compensation at the rate of $450 per diem. As the principal assistant to Inspector Ashford he drew a salary of $1,900 a year.

In place of Mr. Poynton, Thomas Francis, assistant inspector of buildings at $1,500 per annum, is promoted to be principal assistant at $1,900 a year, to be principal inspector of buildings at $2,500 a year is promoted to inspector at $1,500, vice Francis. J. B. Hammond, of the building department, is promoted to be inspector of buildings at $1,300 a year, to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Curtis.

All of these changes and promotions take effect from September 10.

WHATEVER IT IS, WE SELL IT FOR LESS.

Factory Sample Sale

Evidence of What the Spot Cash System Will Do.

A certain big furniture manufacturer of Grand Rapids, Mich., had a large assortment of sample pieces of furniture on his hands. He needed ready cash. We had it. We made him an offer for the entire lot. It was an absurdly low offer, but money talks, and the manufacturer needed it quick—so here are the samples at 25% Less than Manufacturers' Price—several car loads of them, but don't imagine that you can let the matter stand for a while and escape disappointment. These prices

WILL GO LIKE HOT CAKES.

Frankly, we have never before been able to offer such remarkable bargains. BUT THIS IS NOT ALL. We connected with the biggest carpet and rug manufacturers and made them a cash offer for all their sample stock of the season. We closed the deals, and now—they're yours. COME EARLY—THE GREATEST SNAPS WILL BE THE FIRST TO GO. We can't begin to enumerate the bargains. You will have to come and pick them out.

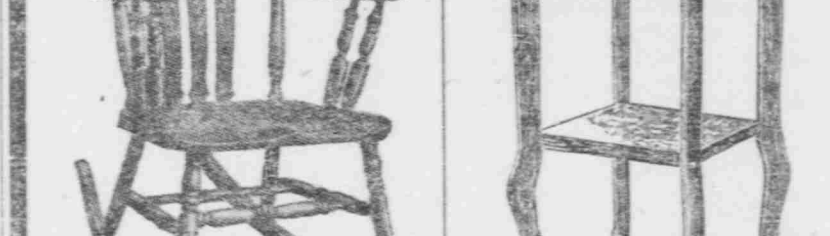

RUGS. Every 9x12 Axminster Rug in the house that sold for $27.50, now $21.85. Every 9x12 Velvet Rug $22.50. Every 9x12 Brussels Rug $18.85. Every All-wool 9x12 Ingrain Rug $7.85. Small rugs, 69c up to $5.00.

CARPETS. The greatest Carpet Sale Washington has ever known. When we purchased the H. Burkhardt's Son stock a year ago there was about $5.00 worth of carpets alone. Too much Carpet stock, and we're making prices that will move it.
